SUMMARY

P.J. O’Rourke began writing funny things in 1960s “underground” newspapers, became editor-in-chief of National Lampoon, then spent 20 years reporting for Rolling Stone and The Atlantic Monthly as the world’s only trouble spot humorist, going to wars, riots, rebellions, and other “Holidays in Hell” in more than 40 countries.

Now O’Rourke, born at the peak of the Baby Boom, turns his keen (read more)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

P. J. O’Rourke

P.J. O’Rourke was born in Toledo, Ohio on November 14, 1947. He received a B.A. from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio and a M.A. in English from Johns Hopkins University. Search Tips

How do I limit or expand my search?

1. Combine, expand, or limit your search through the operators AND, OR, NOT. Please remember to write the operators with capital letters.
2. Use * as a wildcard character to search for variants of a word, for instance pest* (pester, pesticide, pestilence, etc.)
3. Use ? as a wildcard to replace a single letter, for instance wom?n (woman and women). You must use ?? to replace æ, ø, and å.
4. Use (...) parenthesis to group query words, for instance Government AND (democracy OR cabinet responsibility).
5. Use "..." quotation marks, if you want to search for a compound term, for instance "global warming".
6. Use the drop-down menu ‘All collections’ to limit your search to a specific collection in the National Library, to a single faculty or departmental library of Copenhagen University Library, or to Roskilde University Library.
7. Use the filtering features after the search to limit for type of material, author, subject, year, library, etc. You find the filter options to the right of the results list - or at the bottom of the screen, if you use a telephone or tablet.

You must be registered as a user in order to borrow and order. Tip: log in to optimize your search result.
