Virtual Instructor-Led Training

All the benefits of instructor-led training without the hassle of travel.

LET THE EXPERTS GET YOU THERE FASTER.

What is Virtual Instructor-Led Training (VILT)?

VILT leverages the latest in video streaming technology to allow remote learners to participate in live training sessions with an instructor and other students. VILT students are able to interact with the trainer, perform live lab exercises, and participate in group breakout sessions—all from the comfort of their homes or offices.

What are VILT courses like?

Each course lasts about 3 hours, with a break at the halfway point. Students are expected to participate and keep their webcams on, so that the Domo University trainer can ask questions to ensure knowledge retention and skill mastery. Domo University's VILT courses are hands-on, which means each student will spend the majority of the time immersed in Domo.
